We understand that a hotel owner was besieged with protests about something that appeared in this newspaper, including something written personally by the editor. In a most friendly spirit, we must say that hotel owners have no responsibility what ever regarding what goes into, or stays out of, this newspaper.

The above information is conveyed to our readers in a most friendly spirit. Hotel owners do not read what is in this newspaper until after the issue is printed and distributed. Our printers do not read the stuff at all, unless they read it as they put it into type.

If this weather ever gets to be bearable again, we intend to resume our series, "What's Going On In Grenada," in the meantime we are getting by as easy as we can.

While we wish it were financially feasible for a manual training department as an adjunct to the high school could be established now, we realize the very great possibilities of the school inheriting a plant, far beyond the ability of Grenada to buy, from the government after the passing of the emergency, at a cost of less than $1,000,000, we are satisfied and give credit to the school authorities and quote a bit to the GCW which advocated manual training for many months.

We have been quite "hard" in what we have had to say, but it sometimes requires "hard" language to provoke discussion. Discussion of subjects fundamentally right, as the manual training department was, most often leads to results, as in this case.

The scars that have been inflicted upon me will quickly heal, and it is my sincere wish that any scars that I may have inflicted will heal just as quickly.

The proposition now being made by the hosiery mill: to gradually pay the cost of a new building, will, we believe, be suitable to the people of Grenada, including the writer.

1st Cl. Pct. James F. Fields, recently at the air field in Selfridge, Mich., but more recently taking part in the gigantic maneuvers in Louisiana, made a surprise visit to his father, Mr. B. O. Fields, and family Saturday until Monday, coming from New Orleans to Jackson by plane.

It looks like I escaped the series of barrages aimed this week at the C. of C. the Aldermen and the Supervisors. My, me, I guess all of them will be sent to Parchman.

It so happens that a certain "taxpayer" who protests so vigorously about a little increase in taxes, not suitable to His Highness, usually pays his taxes only after distraintment are issued on his property.

I must be getting mighty good as I have not been cussed out publicly in several weeks.

Red Briscoe, Sam Sims and Homer Williams attended the Doxey Rally in Jackson Tuesday. According to them, the election is in the bag.

We have been missing our old friend Sam Simmons, Sr. from the streets and office of late. We hope he is improving and will be able to notify us soon about the weighty circumstances of when we should shed our BVD's and put on our long winter drawers.

We are glad to see our new friend Cecil Jones, of the American Oil Co. up and about again after an appendectomy. He looks almost as svelt as John Bradley, in his new corset and everything.

Finney Gin Ready For 1941 Cotton

The Finney Gin, located just across the tracks from the Federal Complex, is ready for business, having installed the latest Continental equipment. Its free service and the nominal charge for hauling in the seed cotton from any point in this territory are advertised elsewhere. They take the seed cotton from your farm and deliver you a compressed receipt, a sample and an official grade from a government classifier, and will even put bale "in the loan" if you desire.

About the only reason for the owner accompanying the cotton to town is to get his "seed money," which, according to Mr. Finney, will be the "highest market price."

It looks like the old glamorous ways of ginning a bale of cotton, where a fellow ran all over the fields to chase down a pair of mules, went several miles to borrow a wagon, and loaded the white load with the entire family, are gone forever.

City Gives $750 To Grenada County Library

The City Council gave assurance to the members of the 20th Century Club that, unless legal protest is made (an unlikely occurrence), the city will make a donation of $750 to help maintain the Grenada County Library. A number of ladies appeared before the council, Mrs. C. V. McKell spoke.

Shelby Bound

The following men were ordered by the local draft board to report to the draft board on Wednesday for transportation to the induction station at Camp Shelby: J. B. Bailey, City; Robert H. Turner, Greenwood; Herbert L. Staten, CCC Camp, Bessemer, Ala.; Archie R. Campbell, City; Roy E. Lane, Holcomb, and Clifford C. Marter, Grenada.

Good luck, boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralford Brown of New Albany are new citizens of Grenada and are making their home in an apartment on College Blvd. owned by Mrs. A. W. George. Welcome!

Citizens Agree To Sponsor Hosiery Mill Addition

About 35 citizens of Grenada met Wednesday morning and discussed the proposition of the enlargement of the floor space at the hosiery mill to permit the employment of more workers. As explained to us by one of the gentlemen present the plan involves a new building costing approximately $50,000. The money will be raised by a municipal bond issue of that amount. Over a period of twenty years, the hosiery mill will reimburse the city for the cost of the addition to the plant, in the meantime paying six percent on the money. This additional floor space would permit the installation of $125,000 worth of new machinery and the employment of 125 additional employees who will receive about the same wages as are now paid to the workers there now employed. This was the plan as told to us.

We understand that this group, or at least representatives from this group, will appear before the City Council in the near future, either at a regular meeting or at a call meeting, to urge the City Council to take the legal steps necessary to bring this matter officially before the citizens of Grenada for their action.

Council Appropriates $600 To School Band

Upon the motion of Alderman Harry Burkley and the second of Alderman Lem Boone, the City Council by an unanimous vote made an outright donation of $500 to the school band for the purpose of supplementing the $500 plus, raised by the Band Boosters, and about $300 from the School Fund, the whole to be used in buying new jackets for the members of the band. The capes now used by members of the band have been in use for seven years.

Mr. H. A. Alexander, appearing for the Band Boosters organization, made a most clear and earnest appeal for these funds.

MR. E. S. DAVIS AT "COLD STORAGE"

Effective September 1st, Mr. E. S. Davis, formerly of Booneville, took the place of Mr. F. B. Duncan, as manager of the "Cold Storage," otherwise The Grenada County Cooperative. We understand Mr. Duncan is going to Ripley. Mr. Davis' family has not yet arrived in Grenada.

BERNARD-BAILEY

Marriage solemnized in Nation's Capitol.

In the presence of a small group of relatives and friends, Miss Jean Elizabeth Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bailey, of Grenada, and Mr. Fred Eugene Bernard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Bernard, of Columbus, Ohio, were united in marriage at an impressive ceremony performed by the rector, at three o'clock in the afternoon on August 30th, 1941 at Epiphany Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C.

The bride given in marriage by her sister, Miss Mary Bailey, was charmingly attired in a fall costume of mauve, with which she used wine accessories. Her corsage was of sweet heart roses.

Miss Mary Bailey, maid of honor, chose a brown costume with brown and tan accessories. Lovely Tailsman rosebuds formed her corsage.

The groom had as his best man his former college room-mate and fraternity brother, Mr. Bill Dorsey.

The bride is a member of a prominent Grenada, Miss., and Cochran, Ga., family, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bailey of Grenada and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bailey of Cochran. She graduated from Grenada High School, Middle Georgia College and Bowling Green Business University, Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Mr. Bernard is a graduate of Ohio State University and was an active man on the campus and in the Phi Kappa Phi fraternity. He is now affiliated with the Glen L. Martin Co., Middle River, Md.

After the ceremony the couple left on their honeymoon which they spent in the mountains of West Virginia. They are now at home to their friends at 1404 Third Rd. Stansbury Estate, Middle River, Md.

LUNCHEON BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Mrs. John Bradley was hostess to club members and two extra guests Mesdames Earl Burkley and L. D. Boone, on Tuesday of this week when she entertained at luncheon and bridge. The home was charmingly arranged for this occasion and after the serving of a two-course luncheon duplicate bridge was enjoyed throughout the afternoon.

Mr. Frank Gerard, Jr., left Thursday (today) for Riverside College Gainesville, Ga. to assume his duties as teacher of college freshman English and as leader for college orchestra.

Red Cross To Have Local Office Soon

According to Mr. Harry Burkley, Chairman of the Red Cross for Grenada County, an office with a full-time secretary will probably be established in Grenada about the first of October. The work, especially since the beginning of the national emergency, has become so great that a person actively engaged in private business and city business, as Mr. Burkley is cannot give the attention to the work that it deserves without interfering markedly with his own affairs. There are constant calls from itinerants and these calls have to be investigated. The work of liaison between the Red Cross chapters at the various camps and the local Red Cross units has become quite heavy.

Soon, therefore, there will be a Red Cross office with a secretary in Grenada.

GRENADA TAKES STEPS TO SECURE DEFENSE SCHOOL

With The Supervisors

DISTRICT ONE

District One is the most populous district in Grenada County and has an area approximately that of either other large district, District Two and District Five. There are 137 miles of county roads to maintain in this district, also 800 culverts and 30 bridges. Mr. L. P. Horton, of Grenada, is serving his second term as supervisor of this district. He devotes all of his personal attention to his position as supervisor and makes many trips on the trucks throughout the month to see for himself how work is progressing. It is nothing unusual for him to spend an entire day actually "on the ground."

During his five and one-half years in office, he has graveled 30 miles of county road and regraveled about four miles. Until quite recently he availed himself of WPA labor on his roads, but at the present time is graveing roads at an approximate rate of 300 feet per day with two men, and in the meantime keeping his grader crew of two men maintaining roads, and shutting back to spread the gravel that is being dumped by two gravel trucks.

Under the old conception of things, graveing 300 feet of road per day with but TWO men seems impractical, if not impossible, but it is being done very successfully and very economically. At the Allison gravel pit, eleven miles from Grenada in Beat Four, Mr. Horton's crew has built out of used bridge timbers a sort of loading frame high enough for the truck to back under it. A Euclid loader, operated by a tractor, stands by to load each truck with just three trips with the Euclid, an operation that requires the time of one man not over ten minutes. The truck driver drives to the pit, backs his truck under the loading frame, then gets out, cranks up the tractor and uses the Euclid to load the truck, and is on his way back to the dumping point within ten minutes. The gravel is hauled to the road being graveled and dumped in convenient piles later to be spread by the grader crew. The writer has been at this pit when trucks were being loaded by hand and shovel and, while no stop watch was used, it is our guess that this one man operating the Euclid loads a truck almost as quickly as 25 men with shovels loaded a truck. We made a round trip with the truck operated by Mr. Guy Mann. In just a little more than an hour, he went eleven miles from Grenada to the gravel pit, loaded his truck, drove back thru Grenada to the Red hill, two miles South of Grenada, unloaded his truck, and was back in Grenada to unload us. Mr. Edgar Mitchell was driving the other truck and making the same time. On this thirteen mile haul, these trucks are moving from 6 to 8 loads, of an average 2 and one-half yards to the load, per day. As Mr. Horton believes in good equipment, properly lubricated and carefully handled, this operation consumes less than 30 gallons of gasoline per day.

When the trucks of Beat Two are not engaged otherwise, Mr. Chamberlain, the supervisor of that district, shares with Mr. Horton, the advantages of this cheap system of loading gravel. Ten years ago I, as supervisor of District Five, graveled quite a few miles of roads with district trucks, but used the old pick and shovel method of loading and the old shovel method of spreading and I venture the assertion that my costs were four times as great as those of Mr. Horton. Mr. Horton's road crew which has been with him ever since he took office consists of Messrs. Guy Mann, Edgar Mitchell, Frank Gibbs and Shelton Moore.

Editor's Note: If each of the other four supervisors cares to have something written of his operations and will haul me around on a day mutually satisfactory to me and him, I will consider it a privilege to continue this series of articles until I have covered the entire county.

She was the eldest sister of Mr. J. M. Beckum, of Grenada.

The Stork Flew By And Left...

Two sons, Benton Gale and Henry Dale for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fly of Coffeeville at Grenada Hospital on Sept. 6, 1941

Grenada has taken the steps necessary for it to take to place before the government agency involved, to secure for Grenada a so-called Defense School, similar to the one now being successfully operated at the White Haven, Tennessee school.

A government agent, after looking over the field here, practically committed himself to approve the Defense School for Grenada provided a rent free building was provided, and provided a maximum of $1,000 was made available for rearrangement of the building's interior and the wiring necessary for the many electrically-operated tools in the school. Thru a rearrangement of the school budget, which rearrangement the Board of Trustees immediately made and which was immediately approved by State Superintendent Vandiver after a telephone conversation with Mr. Rundle, the money was made available. At this writing, Mr. Stubbs, Vocational Instructor at Grenada High, and long a worker in the interest of the establishment of such a school, is in Memphis pressing Grenada's claim before the government authorities.

If established, this school will operate on four six-hour shifts, and will teach welding, riveting, machine tooling, and other trades so urgently required in plants providing defense material. Persons over 18 years of age from Grenada and from this area will be provided free instruction. Graduates of this school will have excellent chances of securing employment in defense industries.

The school will be under supervision of the school vocational department of the local school, and indirecty under the State Vocational Educational Department.

As explained to us, the government will supply about 20 or 25 thousand dollars worth of machine tools and a large quantity of hand tools, and materials needed in instruction. The government will pay the instructors' estimated cost $4,000.00 per month, and will pay all maintenance expense such as power and lights.

No one in position to commit the government to any course of action, is willing or has the authority to do so, but the very reasonable assumption is that, after the end of the present emergency, the local school will inherit the tools and equipment and may do something that it has long desired but which financial limitations have prevented—that is, have a first class manual training department of its very own. And this may be done with an outlay of $1,000 or less.

More Horses Here For The Races

(Contributed)

With the arrival of six good horses this week from Starkville and Macon, brings the total to sixteen now in the stables at the Fair Grounds ready to go next week. And more are to come.

Beginning Monday, and every day next week, the public will see just as good races each afternoon at the Fair Grounds as has ever been seen before.

All the horses are in tip top shape now after several months of the best of care and training, and the management wants every one to come out and see the races.

The horse owners have been putting on free races each Sunday for the past several months, and having gone to considerable expense in preparing the track and grounds, will appreciate the patronage of the Grenada people all next week when a small admission will be charged in order to help pay expenses.

Mrs. C. C. Cathey, chairman of the ticket sale, will be in charge of the disposal of the tickets for the Fort-nightly Club. Tickets, 25-50, now on sale, or may be had at the gate.

Necessity A Keen Spur

North Carolina is noted as the richest and the most progressive of the older southern states. It did not get that way because its people wanted to rebuild their lands and establish industry, for they, like ourselves, were content to live upon the bounties of Nature, the virgin soil and the virgin timber. North Carolina came to the end of its era of fresh lands and virgin timber about 100 years ago and then there was a great movement to the then fresh lands of the states further west—to Mississippi, then Arkansas, then Texas. The grandparents of many of the people of this county came from North Carolina because, as they then expressed it, they "worn out" the lands of North Carolina.

We well recall this incident told by the late Mr. D. L. Holcomb, who founded Holcomb, Mississippi. His family owned a plantation in North Carolina. It became so poor that the family could not make a living on it, the wheat crop having been lowered to ten or fifteen bushels per acre. The family and its slaves loaded up and moved to fresh lands in Texas. They practically abandoned the old home plantation. Mr. Holcomb later moved back to this State and married. About 35 years ago, he returned to his old home in North Carolina and was surprised to find that the land that his father had "worn out" was then producing 40 bushels of wheat an acre and that North Carolina was on the up and up.

As long as people can live just by tilling the soil and gathering an abundant harvest, they are going to live that way. They follow the line of least resistance. They are not going to do a bit of work more than necessary to get by. Look at the natives of the tropics who can live by shaking a bread fruit tree, or spearing a fish or snaring an animal and you will find the laziest, sordidest people on earth.

Grenada county is at the end of its fresh lands and at the end of its virgin timber. Unfortunately, its people cannot move further West, unless they move into the Pacific Ocean. They are now faced with the absolute necessity of building back their soil, and in doing so North Carolina has done, establishing industries. Our people have but two alternatives, that of permitting their already low standards of living to go lower, or CHANGING their methods.

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

Take A Leaf From Their Book

Merchants might take a leaf from the books of Kroger, the Volunteer Stores, Piggly Wiggly, Jitney Jungle and a few other consistent local advertisers, and from the great department stores in Memphis, some of which use whole sections of the Memphis newspapers. These stores, we know, are not throwing away their money. They are merely continuing a policy that made them great and strong—consistent newspaper advertising. Analysis of the prices offered in these regular advertisements will always note that there are few outstanding bargains offered, especially during this period of consistent rising prices.

Spasmodic advertising seldom returns appreciable dividends, but consistent advertising ALWAYS does. Eli Whitaker, of Whitaker Coal Company, has carried a small ad in EVERY issue of the Grenada County Weekly that has been published. Perhaps he cannot cite a specific instance where this expense has helped him, for customers seem averse to acknowledging that they were inspired to buy by advertising. But the weekly message, "Call Ten For Coal," we venture to say, has paid great dividends, even if in a subtle way, to Eli Whitaker.

We always advise a potential advertiser that it is better to spend two dollars a week for advertising for a period of 51 weeks than it is to spend $26.00 a week for four weeks.

Preachers preach to an audience that is somewhat static; newspapers preach to a moving throng. An ad which appears but once is quite likely to be overlooked by many of the readers, but an ad repeated week by week gains attention from ALL readers at one time or another.

Confusion Worse Confounded

We recited in a previous issue that the AAA engineers (?) who measured the old lady's farm first reported that she was allowed 24 acres of cotton, but had overplanted 2.8 acres; that she paid $1.70 for a recheck and this recheck by the other engineers (?) disclosed that she had planted but 2.2 acres too much, but that there was a deficiency of 3.0 acres in pears.

The latest report from the engineers (?) is that she has 22.5 acres of cotton left, after presumably plowing up 2.2 acres—all of which does not make any sense to us, much less to persons who never dealt with the AAA.

While we are somewhat rusty on mathematics, it looks like she originally had just about the right amount of cotton, but was forced to pay for two extra surveys, then have 1.50 acres less cotton than she was entitled to.

Fortunately it makes little difference for this reason: 24 times nothing equals nothing, and 22.5 times nothing equals nothing—the yield being nothing per acre.

Keep Mississippians At Home

(By H. B. A.)

Much is being written at this time about democracy. And most of what is being written about democracy is pure and unadulterated fiction. For a democracy, in the sense in which that term was understood by the founding fathers, was a society in which there would be a large measure of social and economic equality among all classes of our citizens.

In the sense of social and economic equality among men, it must be conceded that democracy is not too strikingly successful. Thoughtful men at present are giving most serious attention to grave national problems which result in a large measure from the great inequalities which now exist in the United States, not only as between individuals, but actually as between large regions of this country.

But we have one institution in this country which is, in the truest sense, a democratic institution. That is our public school system. For our public school system is the most democratic, and the most socialistic, institution in our society. In a democratic society all men are supposed to be equal before the law. Whether that is really the case or not may be left to your own judgment. But before the public school system, all of us are, or have been in our time, perfectly equal.

The public school system is served by one of the most patriotic groups of citizens in our national life. Although professional people, trained through many years, they devote their lives to a service which is one of the most trying on the nerves, and one of the lowest paid vocations open to an intelligent person. There is an element of public service in the career of the school teacher which is parallel to the services of the medical profession in all its branches.

The sole desire of the teaching profession is to serve the youth of the community to the best of its ability, not only with the object of imparting useful knowledge—but with the laudable purpose of instilling into young minds, those fine qualities of character, and those shining ideals, which will in later years serve to distinguish the students as useful and honorable citizens in the community.

The teaching profession must use, to obtain its objectives, that material and equipment which is provided for its use by the city. They serve in a manner which is largely determined by the city generally. And, whatever their personal desires may be, their usefulness is strictly limited by the tools and instruments which are placed at their disposal.

In order to provide school teachers with adequate tools for the most effective results, the question arises as to what are the fundamental requirements of the community with respect to the school system. For what purpose do we educate our young people at the present time? Should we educate them in order that they may read and write and figure; or should we educate them with the object of giving them a training which will aid them in the all important matter of making a living? What is the particular merit of a good education in algebra and biology, or the ability to read Voltaire in French, if with those accomplishments, the student graduates to perform some small task for which a sixth grader would be equally qualified.

In view of the changing conditions of employment which the student faces upon graduation, should we give him a good general education, with no special training to qualify him for profitable employment when he leaves high school? Or should we give him a good general education, and in addition to the cultural subjects, provide him with a practical training along some line for which he shows a natural aptitude and inclination?

Let us examine into the various classes of students now receiving instructions in the Grenada High School, and explore the actual requirements necessary to qualify them as useful citizens in this community when they graduate.

Approximately twenty to twenty-five percent of those who graduate expect to enter Southern colleges and universities. Some intend to study law, medicine, dentistry, engineering, teaching, and the learned professions generally. Others seek the social and cultural advantages of a liberal arts education.

To prepare this group of especially intelligent students for their college and university careers is a fundamental duty of our present program at Grenada High School. This is a necessary and desirable function; and in this respect the Grenada High School stands in the front rank of Mississippi High Schools in efficiency.

The record of Professor John Rundle, and his eminently qualified staff, is widely known in this state. The record of Grenada students in schools of higher learning is a great credit to this community. Unless the efforts of Professor Rundle and his staff were exceptional, it is highly improbable that the records of their students would be exceptional. That is a sound and logical assumption.

Another one-quarter of the graduates, through natural aptitude, good personalities, and the influence of family and friends, manage to find opportunities for employment in many lines of endeavor. In the case of these students also, their education may reasonably be considered a success. The love and affection with which they refer to their school, and to their instructors, would bear out this belief.

We now turn to the consideration of the remaining half of the graduates; and to that large number who for many reasons enter high school but leave without completing their courses. They represent the majority of students entering high schools.

These students are, generally speaking, facing an entirely different world than did their parents and grandparents. When they left school, Mississippi was then a strictly agricultural state, and the employment opportunities that were then open were only those which would be available in country towns and small cities.

Today Mississippi of necessity is passing, and must pass rapidly into an industrial society. If we are to maintain our present population in employment, scourges in the cotton fields, and competition from countries which can produce cotton more cheaply than the United States compel less and less reliance on our cotton. The denuded forests of Mississippi are rapidly dwindling. Some mills in Mississippi operate with Louisiana timber.

Therefore we are compelled to make provision for the future—and provision for the future requires that we manufacture and process our natural resources in Mississippi, and cease shipping them north to be manufactured there. Industry must be broken up in the north; and the south must have its reasonable share of this industry.

In order to attract industry we must have trained labor. We do not at present have trained labor in any numbers, so we must go about training our young people along practical and technical lines. If we do not, we face two conditions. The students are cast upon the waters of unemployment without life belts to sustain them in competition with students from other localities who have been given practical training.

And when manufacturers seek a locality in which to locate a plant, we must confess that we have no technical training in our schools, and must take second place to those Southern communities that have been sufficiently farsighted to realize both their obligations to their own youth, and their own self interest in training the young along lines which will attract industries to their cities.

Recently, in Birmingham, Alabama, Mr. C. A. Walter, Vice President of Sears, Roebuck & Co. in charge of Southern Industrial Development, was speaking with me on this subject. In substance his views were, "When a manufacturer of men's garments, for example, goes into a district where there is no technical training in the schools, and therefore no trained power machine operators available, it costs that manufacturer from two hundred to five hundred dollars to train every inexperienced girl employed."

"In this line which we are considering, the cost of training each girl is approximately five hundred dollars. Two hundred operators therefore cost the manufacturer nearly one hundred thousand dollars to train ($100,000.00), because under the law the manufacturer must pay for the time of the operators while learning, and stand the loss of the materials destroyed in the process of learning."

In technical high schools these operators can be trained by the city as part of the educational program, with very little expense to the community, and when they are given employment after graduation, they immediately make good wages in industry. In fact, the girls are given aptitude tests while they are still training in high school classes, and arrangements are made for their employment as soon as they leave school."

It is therefore perfectly obvious that, when a manufacturer is seeking to locate a plant in Mississippi, if Grenada is one of the cities that have provided technical training for high school students, Grenada will have several chances to attract desirable new industries to one chance that will come to our neighboring cities where no such training is available.

The cost of this machine equipment is relatively small. It can sometimes be obtained from the manufacturers for a nominal sum, and they will also suggest, for instructor, a person particularly well qualified by ability and experience in that department.

The particular industry for which Grenada is competing with other Mississippi and Alabama communities at present, would employ 100 girls as soon as they could be trained and that number increased to 200 as rapidly as possible. The payroll, when two hundred were employed, would be approximately two hundred thousand dollars annually. If there was no expansion above the level of two hundred employees, that would mean that this industry would pay into Grenada, in wages alone, at least one million dollars every five years. That is what was referred to in last week's article, with reference to education being an asset and an investment, rather than an expense. It is a large item of expense to the city—but an absolutely essential one. But with the trend of the time, and the necessity for industrializing Mississippi in order to give employment to the rising generation, the adapting of our educational program to our present and future needs will actually convert the Grenada High School into a most valuable financial asset to the community—stimulate the growth of Grenada by attracting high type industries which pay good wages—and at the same time prepare students for practical and profitable employment in the community—thus removing the necessity for so many young people leaving Grenada to seek employment elsewhere.

Viewed from every angle, that of the sincere desire of the high school faculty to serve the community, the earnest desire of parents to prepare their young people to successfully make their own way in the world, the students to have greater certainty of employment when they leave school, the community to flourish and prosper, and taxpayers to protect their property values against the eventual decline of Grenada's cotton and timber industries—in fact, there does not occur to me, after a most painstaking scrutiny and examination of the facts, a single logical or convincing reason why our next step should not be to convert our school system into unquestionably the most valuable asset which the city of Grenada possesses.

In other words, we are solidly behind the efforts of Professor Rundle and his staff and of our eminent school trustees, Messrs. Anderson, Gore, Keeton, Perry, and Rayburn, in their present energetic effort to provide this community with one of the most effective instruments available to us in our efforts to insure prosperity and protection to all classes of citizens in Grenada.

It has been truthfully contended that the South is a land from which large numbers of the most alert and intelligent young people are drained into the industrial and commercial systems of the northern states. It is a fact that for every enterprising and energetic northerner to be found working in the Southern states, there are a much larger number of fine Southern brains working in the northern states.

We all recognize the essential truth of these conditions. We all know that they are a detriment and a disadvantage to the Southern states. They are a detriment to Mississippi—and they are a disadvantage to Grenada. But recognizing facts, and doing something to remedy and change conditions are two very different things.

Let us convert our convictions into action. Let us plan our future to the best of our ability, both in our own interests, and in the interests of the young people among us. In other words, ladies and gentlemen, let us "KEEP MISSISSIPPIANS AT HOME!"

Citizen Gives Opinion On School Situation

Grenada, Miss., Sept. 8, 1941
Grenada County Weekly:

Will you please permit me to reply to your editorial of last week, on "Manual Training?"

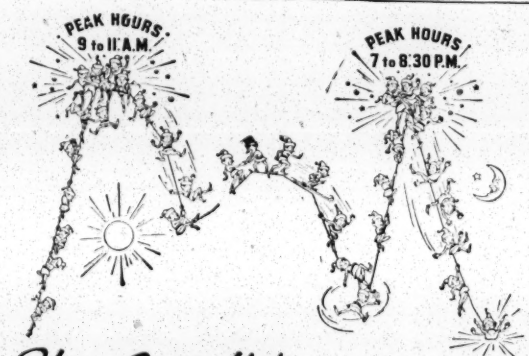

I appreciate this write up in which you state something is wrong with the school system. I do not know where the trouble is, but we old timers that went to a one-room school building with only four walls, only one teacher to teach—two months in the winter and two months in the summer, did learn to write and spell, also did learn to find percentage of anything.

I know we have high class men and ladies that are able to teach and stand high in the educational work. Our children have the mind to learn, but as you state—few can write, and when they do they can hardly read what they write.

The writer schooled three boys, all three to be grown. The older came to my home for a place to stay at the age of 16. He was very enthusiastic to get an education, mattered not the cost, having the responsibility of himself, he worked hard in the school room, and after school found work to "at least pay all he could for his support," he claimed with his hands to work, to do anything honorable, without a complaint, he batted his way through high school. Entered college, but only finished two years. He is now teaching and has been for twelve years, eight years in one school, he has made good with his learning, has paid for a small farm, stocking it with fine bred cattle and is very helpful in his community.

I have two sons that went to the same school, taught by the same teacher, the older made good grades, never was allowed to loaf, always found plenty work in a store, taught and trained to work hard before and after school. By the time he was out of school, he

Here's How

There are two high peaks in the long distance telephone day. Between 9 and 11 a.m. and 7 and 8:30 p.m.

During these hours more people use the Nation's long distance lines than at any other time of the day.

When you place a long distance call during rush hours, you may experience delay or you may unknowingly interfere with important business relating to National Defense.

Remember to avoid rush hours by making your calls at other times of the day whenever possible. This co-operation on your part will result in quicker service for you and will contribute to the speeding of our National Defense effort.

Doxey Backed President In Voting For Money To Aid U. S. Defense

Jackson, Miss. — Declaring that "without the necessary appropriations, the national defense program would be in a bad way," Representative Wall Doxey continued his campaign for the United States Senate this week with the statement that "when the House last March approved the $7,000,000,000 appropriation to put the lend-lease bill into effect, my opponent for the Senate was recorded NOT voting."

"I voted for the appropriation," Mr. Doxey said, "just as I have supported and voted for all the proposals advanced by the Roosevelt administration in the interest of national defense. The president needs cooperation more than ever in this emergency. That is what I have given the White House on all the defense plans."

"The president needs support against those people in Congress and throughout the country who in speeches and otherwise are violently opposing the foreign policies and the defense program. You know of whom I speak," Mr. Doxey said.

"So far as this campaign is concerned, the record shows that when the New York Republican, Hamilton Fish, the greatest obstructionist in the House to the defense program, sought to sabotage the Selective Service Act with an amendment which would have drastically interfered with the draft and hurt the preparedness plans, he had the support of my opponent, who was paired FOR the amendment. I voted with the White House and against the Fish amendment."

"My opponent also voted AGAINST a bill in 1939 which carried a large appropriation for the enlargement of the Coast Guard in the interest of national defense. I voted for the appropriation."

"I could cite many other instances of negligence on the part of my opponent, but I want particularly to call your attention to the fact that he was recorded as NOT voting June 13, 1940, when the House voted on a resolution to deport Harry Bridges, the West Coast labor agitator, whose activity has hurt many vital industries. I voted to deport Harry Bridges and rid the country of troublemakers of that type."

"Not only that," Mr. Doxey declared, "but an analysis of the record shows that from 1929 to 1941 Ross Collins was not the author of a single constructive law or a single national law. He introduced many, many bills, but only a slight per cent even got out of the committee to which they were referred."

"On the other hand, I am proud to say that there are many bills which are now the law of the land and which bear the name of Wall Doxey. These include the extension of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the Doxey Act regulating cotton exchanges and the Doxey-Smith cotton classification act. "The acts which bear my name were made laws through cooperation with the leaders in Washington. To get things accomplished in Washington, as elsewhere, calls for cooperation and that is something I have always practiced. I believe in unity and solidarity."

"Home Company News"

By Sgt. Frank Tins

As it must undoubtedly seem, my column appearing every other week has been a regular occurrence, instead of coming out each week, as has been so intended. Nevertheless, a soldier in maneuvers has to write when he gets a chance. Orders and special duties come before anything else in the army, and those orders, along with plenty of work are coming very regular right at the present.

At this moment, Hdq. Btry. is awaiting an order from 'Higher Ups' to move out. It is very evident that we will occupy a new position to the rear, as it seems inevitable that we lose this battle that we are participating in now. We, the Dixie Division, are fighting alongside the rest of the IV Corps. Our enemies, in this battle, are the rest of the Third Army, or rather the V and VII Army Corps. Saturday, or yesterday, an Armistice was declared in order to give all participating troops a "day of rest." Tonight, sometime, action will start again, and the 114th F. A. along with all other combat units will once again swing into action, lasting until sometime Tuesday, when this problem is scheduled to come to a close.

As I look to one side and then the other, it can be readily seen that each man is getting prepared for the moment, not far away, when we will start "moving out." Across the way dishes are being cleaned by K. P.'s cooks and cooks' helpers are checking all food supplies to see that each article is loaded rightly. Over here, Sgt. Gaston and his radio operators are checking all sets, to see that they are working correctly and loaded in their appropriate places. Farther up the way, Sgt. M. M. Batson can be seen fitting his men at the command Post in readiness. All wire communications are being taken up under the supervision of Sgt. Ming and James. At Message Center, Cpl. Houston and assistant Pvt. Lynn Williams are dispatching all messages and clearing each message as it comes in. The Two Liaison sections, in charge of Sgt. Sam Sam R. Spence and myself are ready to move out at a moment's notice, to take up position with the two Battalions of the 116th F. A. in Florida. Each man is dressed in blue denim and full field equipment. When the order comes down, each man, each truck, each section will be ready to go, and all that will be awaited is the appointed time. Then things will "pop loose."—Until then, we will just rest and wait.

Each man in Hdq. Btry. and I am sure, each person in Grenada, wishes to take this opportunity to congratulate an old member of this outfit, instead of being Lieutenant McCormick, it is now CAPTAIN James M. McCormick. Another silver bar added and another swell officer moves up a notch. Congratulations, Sir!!

Also, I wish to take this opportunity, as does each soldier from your home town, to express our gratitude and deep appreciation for the swell way in which each person in Grenada treated the soldiers from Ohio who passed through there and spent the night a few weeks ago. It showed the true hospitality of the people of Grenada, and also, expressed your heartfelt thanks for the way people of other Southern towns treat "your boys" when they pass through.

In closing, I would like to add this little thought, taken from our division paper, "The Dixie":
MANEUVERS
Chiggers running up your back,
Mosquitoes in your tent,
Dust enough to stop your breath,
A week for letters sent.

Sleeping in the rain sometimes;
Or sweating with the heat,
Hunting out adhesive tape,
For blisters on the feet.

Trying to pitch a tent in mud,
Knowing details never,
Keeping on with just one thought:
"This can't last forever."

CITIZEN GIVES OPINION
had been taught by experience to attend to business. Today, he has a good job, makes a good salary. His brother went to the same school, under the same environment, but being six years younger, the school system had changed. It developed that he was a good ball pitcher, and there spent most of his time on the athletic rounds, over the protest of his parents, was taught to be a good athlete. We do not protest against a certain amount of athletic training but when that is all, our boys and their parents suffer. This boy was offered a good place in Washington, D. C. to pitch ball, his arm failed him, therefore he cannot pitch any longer. His education is limited, he is forced to accept a job in a filling station where some of the most unlearned work, at a salary of about half his brother. I mention this to prove you that this is correct.
I remember a few years ago that the county paid teachers to teach our boys and girls to continue in school, finish their work and there were plenty jobs waiting and that they no longer would have to tug on the farm for a living, in that same school teachers were paid to teach the same boys and girls how to cook, sew, patch quilts, make dresses, hoe, plow and pick cotton, and any other hard manual labor. All this is good but what a mix up we have, it is like heating the water to make tea, buy ice to freeze it (lemon to sour it and sugar to sweeten it. I am not able able to solve these matters but I am looking forward to schools that will have systems, that will bring about more manual training. Hundreds and hundreds of our boys and girls are holding high school diplomas that can not tell you which brings the greater percentage—an article that costs 75 cents and sell for $1.00 and another article that cost $1.00 and sells for $1.25. They may be able to tell you how many inches in a round hole, but very few ever dig one, and may be able to tell how seed germinate but to put this training in practice in another thing.

We older people, those that have not had the opportunity for much book training, all believe in an education—but not from books alone. I know two families of several children in each, that have learned their books well, but not able to hold a position of any kind.

Since the 31st Tank Destroying Battalion is just an experiment, no one knows exactly the functions of it. However, in a nut shell, it protects the installations of the division from a dreaded weapon—the tank. It is fairly well established that a mass tank attack will break through the infantry and their anti-tank defense, in order to protect the artillery and other units this tank battalion is strategically placed behind the "foot-sloggers". Guns are placed along roads or areas that a tank attack is likely to proceed down. A certain number of guns are held in reserve, in readiness, to be shifted where they are needed. Attached to our battalion is a company of engineers who blow up bridges, plant land mines and construct other obstacles that will hinder the progress of the "Iron Horse".

The farmers, merchants and other civilians, in the maneuver area, are doing a lion's share in making the two months' stay here a pleasant one for the 500,000 men in khaki. Mr. and Mrs. Average citizen—the foundation of human material upholding our nation's greatness—determine the destiny of our land. The average citizen like these all over the 48 states whose high spirit and aspirations do more to determine the strength of this nation than thousands of tanks and millions of guns and tens of thousands of airplanes. In short, when the folks back home are behind the men in the service you have a good army, when they half-heartedly support it your fighting force is hardly better than a half-organized mob. We reprint an editorial from the 124 Cavalry News. It will be well worth the time required to read it:

REAL PATRIOTS
(An editorial in the 124th Cavalry News)

Back in the piney woods of East Texas and Louisiana there are thousands of people who never heard of the USO or similar service organizations but who yet are doing inspiring work in national defense, especially in building up morale among the weary men on maneuvers.

With nearly 500,000 soldiers suddenly dumped into this area, the citizens of numerous small towns have a serious problem confronting them—a problem they are facing complacently. Cities and towns are giving freely of their water supplies. Grocery stores, which heretofore stocked only enough for civilian needs, have given army buyers priority. Regular customers have waited several days for certain food items which were sold out overnight because "the army wanted it." It's all for defense with these people and the store owners, and they are bearing inconveniences with a grin.

This spirit of cooperation even spreads far back into the Sabine forest, where farmers have allowed several hundred men to come in and fill their canteens from a well that was nearly dry at the time. One farmer, for example, stood for hours at his well late one afternoon and helped the men fill their canteens. When dark came, he hung a lighted kerosene lantern by the well so that men could get still more water.

A farmer's wife, letting her household chores go, stayed up until late one night baking biscuits for hungry troopers. She worked until her flour supply was exhausted. Asked why she worked so late into the night just to give her biscuits away, she said: "Every boy likes hot biscuits, and I hate to see any of them do without."

At another farm house a young couple furnished water, towels, soap and wash pans for soldiers. And they knew that once the news spread there would be scores of others coming to their door. They gave up their quiet evening on the front porch so dirty, tired soldiers might wash and shave.

In Mary Louisiana two soldiers, with seven cents between them, searched a display of cookies in vain for something they could purchase. The grocer, noticing their predicament gave the boys a box of fig newtons and two bananas apiece, saying he would make up the difference.

There are numerous other instances of such cooperation and generosity.

While these farmers give freely of whatever they have, while the grocers empty their shelves of food supplies for the army and civilians throughout the maneuver area work overtime, to fill other army needs, there are workers striking by the thousands in important defense projects in the North and East. They speak of "unfair working conditions" and a "living wage."

Defense strikers have a lesson in patriotism to learn from some real patriots—the simple farmer folks and good neighbors of East Texas and Louisiana.

The Twentieth Century Club is a study club of outstanding importance among the clubs of the State. Its membership includes thirty ladies; club days are the first and third Tuesdays of each month. Each year a definite program is arranged and much thought and study are reflected in each member's contribution. This year's program deals with an intensely interesting subject, "The United States in the World Crisis." Aside from program importance, is the splendid civic service project sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club in their work for the Public Library.

The Grenada County Board of Supervisors and the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Grenada each set aside a sum of money annually for the maintenance of the Library. Miss Ann Neely, whose marriage to Attorney William H. Fedric will occur in the late autumn, was charmingly honored by her sister, Mrs. J. H. Neely, Jr., at her Main Street home Saturday evening, at an announcement party.

For this occasion the home featured lovely flower arrangements, of rose and lavender hues predominating and this color scheme blended into the nautical motif which influenced the refreshments and favors.

Miss Neely was lovely in a patriotic red, white and blue linen frock with a corsage of white chrysanthemums, tied with ribbons matching her costume.

The guests were given an adorable white and blue navy cap with the names, Ann-Bill printed around the brim.

Delicious refreshments consisting of sherbet, sandwiches, cookies and salted nuts were served by the hostess who was graciously assisted by Miss Dick Jones and Miss Louise Sanderson.

Speaking of NATIONAL DEFENSE . . . and other important matters

The OPPORTUNITY for service was there but WHERE was Ross Collins?

The Record—the Congressional Record—reveals a woeful negligence on the part of Ross Collins in his actual voting on national defense laws and appropriations—matters which affected and affect the very security and protection of our country.

You might have read and heard a lot about what Ross Collins claims to have done about preparedness and national defense but when his presence was NEEDED in the House, he was somewhere else most of the time. Even when he was present, his votes in many instances were cast AGAINST something that was vital.

Laws for national defense are made in Congress—not magazines.

A look at the record below will show how Ross Collins, self-styled military expert, has ducked and dodged. IN CONTRAST, a look at the same record will show how WALL DOXEY has courageously supported and voted for programs necessary to our defense.

Here's the Vote on The Deportation of Harry Bridges

And The Investigation of Radically Promoted Strikes!

JUNE 13, 1940—The House voted on a resolution asking the deportation of Harry Bridges, the ALIEN labor agitator whose activity on the Pacific Coast brought about disruption in certain industries vital and necessary to the security of our country. Bridges was one of the foremost causes of the strikes which stalled production on the West Coast. (Pages 12390 and 12391, Congressional Record, unbound volume of that date)

APRIL 8, 1937—The House voted on a resolution asking an investigation of the sit-down strikes which were then plaguing the country and halting production. (Page 3301, Congressional Record, Volume 81, Part 3)

It's not what Ross Collins has done FOR preparedness; it's what he's done TO preparedness by his ducking and dodging on vital measures. Work in Washington, as in other places, toward making the United States a strong and invulnerable nation, calls for cooperation. Unity is our need. WALL DOXEY believes in and works for cooperation in all matters.

Wall Doxeys record on national defense is a record of a man who believes that preparedness is the best insurance for peace and who works, votes and acts for such a program. He has supported the Administration consistently and conscientiously on proposals for the welfare of the nation.

Our fine cousin, J. Potts Holt, in Memphis missed a copy of the GCW recently and sent in a dime for another one. It was cheaper to keep the dime than to send it back, but we wish to say that if anyone misses a copy had enough to send for another one, we are always glad to send one without charge.

It will not be long now until Roy Deak has an ad.

Wonder what Sam Mitchell is doing, and if he still loves his dogs and tigers. One man recently called these animals in memory of old Sam.

Our handman, Money Johnson, has returned from Washington, and was used about three days patching the roofs that Botch put on, making doors close, and windows open where Botch had made a mess of the matters. The devil is going to grab Botch right out of the pulpit some of these days.

Aint they sweet.

They say that Sam Simmons, Sr. is some better, and the only problem is to MAKE him take it easy.

I was mighty glad to see the old lady back last Thursday, even if she got back too late to do anything with the paper. And look what a sorry mess it was without her!!

Cousin Joe Ward, of Oxberry, graced Grenada with his presence last Friday.

We make all kinds of duplicate and triplicate forms, numbered and bound, is necessary.

SOUTHERN FARMERS SPEED DEFENSE PASTURES

Answering the call of national defense for an unlimited increase in dairy products, southern dairymen, livestock producers, and agricultural leaders are joining forces to increase quantity and quality of production, cut feed costs, and extend the grazing season during which the cheapest and best feeds are available.

"In the South, economical production depends on securing a liberal supply of high quality homegrown feed at a minimum cost throughout as many days of the year as possible," declared R. H. Lush, pasture specialist, at a National Fertilizer Association, at a recent meeting of North Carolina farmers. In view of the early summer drought in most of the South and the trend of higher feed prices, every effort should be made to seed more permanent pastures and increase the productivity of these already in use.

Results from improved pastures show what can be done profitably to meet the increased demand. In Georgia, cows on permanent pasture treated with limestone and phosphate produce a 100 per cent calf crop two years in succession, though only 50 per cent of the cows on native unfertilized pasture produce calves.

St. Jones recently paid his dues.

One fellow from Pearidge said that the boll weevil had punctured all the cotton bolls and had started on the persimmons.

Babe Costlow got into good standing until about Christmas with two gallons of sorghum.

J. M. Beckum showed up Saturday, monstache and all.

When we begin worrying about how hot it is in this Den, we think of how hot it is in Matt Cooley's Hotel de Jail, and get moderately cool again.

Wearing "V" buttons and singing "God Bless America" is not going to stop Hitler. Americans like the British, face blood, work and sweat.

Grenada people know what great benefits accrued from the presence of the hosiery mill here. Grenada may soon face the opportunity of getting another plant which will employ young women, and will pay at least 42 cents per hour. Cotton is no longer to be depended upon; we MUST do something else or see Grenada go backward, and thereby reverse a 100-years program of steady progress.

South Street has got back to normal again. The Jacksons have returned from a long trip to the West; Mrs. Annie Jones is back from the mountains of North Carolina; the Whites have had their week at Utica; the old lady and Carolyn have had their decennial trip to Chicago.

In buying two joints of stove pipe, Mr. W. B. Rook explained that he needed them for his cotton pickers. The rains fall so often and cotton is so scarce, he will use the joints to put seed cotton in, and this tin armor will protect the picked cotton from the frequent rains.

Quite a gallery watches the weekly race horse trials at the Fair Grounds each Sunday afternoon.

One fellow, fearing that I was actually going to start preaching, gave us an ad last week. Thanks.

Everybody is glad to see Fisher Oltens back on the job.

Another lamb returned to the fold. Mrs. W. D. Riley, of Chicago, has renewed relations with the GCW mailing list.

We are sure that the list of those we have listed as going off to college is incomplete, for we not fallible like other humans. We, therefore, would appreciate anyone telling us of other of our fine boys and girls who are leaving or have left for college.

The old lady and I will cheerfully give anyone contemplating going into the newspaper business the benefit of our experience. Briefly stated, it is not easy.

Farmers constitute the only class which can continue to operate at a loss EVERY year. Farmers can owe twice as much on their land as it is worth and still keep it; they can owe twice as much on their work stock and equipment as they are worth, and still get a "turnish." They constitute the only class on earth that can borrow on intangible prospects, borrow even before a row is plowed, or a seed planted.

Had he run, Mike Conner would have hurt Collins more in this county than he would have hurt Doxy.

Bobbie Weir, now enrolled at Sunflower College officially as Robert A. Weir, has been added to the list. His daddy will cut and shave his sub, out, which is the same as cash money.

C. I. Childs, tonsorialist at Collins Barber Shop up the street on Beale, will also cut and shave out a subscription.

WHAT IS THE FARM BUREAU? HAS BEEN ASKED

"Almost every day somebody asks me 'What is the Farm Bureau?' recently stated Mr. Groce Carver, president of the Grenada County Farm Bureau. "That certainly is a fair question for we are asking every farmer in the county to join the Farm Bureau and not only the farmers but everyone should know something about this great farm organization," continued the local president.

"The Farm Bureau is an organization of farmers working toward 'Equality for Agriculture.' It is farmer controlled, farmer operated, and farmer directed. The organization works for farm improvement by education and legislation. It is simply a group of farmers who realize that 'in union there is strength' and that farmers can never attain an equal footing with other groups until they become organized themselves."

"The Farm Bureau is thoroughly Democratic. There is a state organization made up of county organizations. The State Farm Bureau can do only the things which delegates from the county Farm Bureau authorize. Then, there is a National organization made up of the state organizations. The American Farm Bureau can do only the things which delegates from the several state organizations authorize it to do. At all times and in all places the control of the organization is in the hands of the farmers or his authorized voting delegates."

"There are 73 county Farm Bureaus in Mississippi which are members of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation. There are 38 states in the American Farm Bureau Federation."

MY COLUMN

(Continued from page 1, Section 2) drawing near. The half-million men start their homeward trek September 21st and the last echelon leaves the 30th of this month from the information we have now, we are scheduled to leave the 24th and we will go by the Southern route to Camp Blanding. If such be the case the trip will carry us through New Orleans, Gulfport, Biloxi, Mobile, Pensacola and Tallahassee. Arrangements are being made for us to stop several days on the Mississippi Coast. In the event we leave Louisiana the 24th we should be in Gulfport the 26th. Those concerned might get in touch with loved ones and arrange a meeting.

A store on wheels, that's what our canteen is. Since we are kept so close to our area manager of the battalion canteen has placed a stock of cold cold drinks, candy, cigarettes, cakes, etc. on a prime-mover and visits each battery bivouac area five times per day to sell his wares. If you know the army as we do you would consider it service deluxe, too.

Here's to inform Mrs. Nichols that "Pig" Payne is really delighted with the gift she presented him—a ham-mock. Wish I had a girl like Ethel George.

We have more argument about Mississippi State and Ole Miss. than they do at Dyre-Kent Drug Co. The 40 odd fellows from Starkville are for State—That's the only fault we men from Grenada can find wrong with them. Maybe if Jack and Spivey get drafted we can show them the light and get them out of the narrow and winding path.

I've been from Main to Spain on a train, in a bathing suit. Never have I seen so many ticks as we have in the Louisiana "Green Room."

ELECTION SIDE GLANCE

(Mrs. W. W. W.)
Two Washingtonians are candidates for the Senate seat left vacant by the late Hon. Pat Harrison, and the day of the election is Tuesday, Sept. 23, 1941. Mississippians know very little about these two men. The issue does not seem to be based so much on the candidate's ability to represent Mississippi, but on which part of the state they are from.

Not knowing these gentlemen very well, yet knowing human nature, influenced by that insidious thing called politics, we are going to venture a few remarks.

Should a candidate, backed by his part of the state because of loyalty, be elected, he would, in the months allotted him between now and the expiration of the term and still depending on loyalty, give favors to the opposing section of the state so as to corrupt the voters there when election time rolls around again. In other words that minority in the opposing section of the state would receive such favors that all in that section would benefit. The majority in the section from which the candidate is elected will COAST a long way just on the multitering wings of their success, while the minority or opposing vote would benefit from favors scattered over their area. Please remember that very few people are of the unselfish type. The above makes one consider a little deeper and predict that when election time comes around again, maybe another man will beat both of them.

I WANT A MAN
Dear Mr. Roosevelt,
We want Ma Perkins ousted from her seat.

She ain't no kind of Labor Leader
For a time like this.

With all the nations at blood heat
Now Mr. Roosevelt,
We know that Ma is very sweet,
But all these strikes that she allows,
Are goin' to end in our defeat.

Please, Mr. Roosevelt,
Just listen here:—
All Mississippi has been poundin' at your door.

Beseechin' you to put Ma out,
And git a man to head our Labor Board.

And now the Legion of the last World War,
With all the patriots of Foreign Wars,
Combine in one dire, firm demand:
That you elect Ma Perkins,
And put a son of Adam in command.

Note: Dear Mr. Editor, we know that this Mother Goose rhyme will never reach the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. We know, of course, that women are very valuable creatures. No man ever got into this world without the aid of a woman.

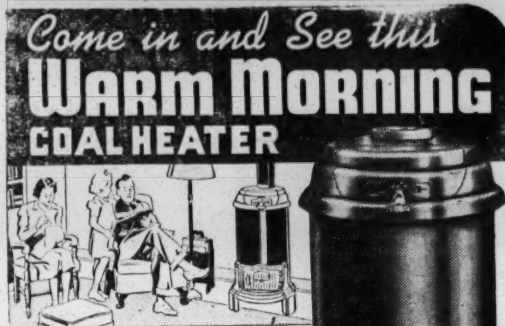

Women are essential to mankind in many ways. Shaks and emperors have been known to pay great prices for some of them.

We believe in women's rights, but far ahead of that, we believe in the right of our nation to defend itself; and that it cannot do, with a sweet, gentle lady at the head of the Labor Board.

Lady Byron.
